

FARMERS' SHORT COURSE IS READY

EXPECT LARGEST ATTENDANCE AT A. & M. COLLEGES THIS WEEK.

IT WILL LAST ONE WEEK

Stillwater Will Accommodate the Several Hundred Farmers Who Will Attend.

STILLWATER, Okla., Jan. 10.—Arrangements are being made in Stillwater to care for the largest crowd that has ever attended a session of the A. & M. college winter short course for farmers. The session will be held this year January 12-17.

Several hundred farmers and their wives, from different sections of the state, will be here for the short course. Used to caring for large crowds on special occasions, there is no danger that the facilities of Stillwater hotels and boarding houses will be severely taxed. It is also certain that there will be no increase in prices during the short course.

In addition to the regular faculty members of the A. & M. college, more than twenty outside experts have been engaged. These include some of the most widely known men and women in this country in agricultural and domestic science work. All lecturers and experts on the program for the short course have written that they will be here without fail. They are preparing special lectures for the short course.

All lecturers and experts on the program will be at the service of visitors at the short course for consultation. Members of the college faculty will be glad at any time to confer with farmers on any subject of farm interest, whether covered by the program or not.

The Oklahoma Dairymen's association and the Oklahoma Hockerspoon association will hold sessions at Stillwater during the progress of the winter short course for farmers. These conventions will bring to A. & M. college a large number of farmers interested in these lines of work. A poultry show is to be held in connection with the short course, and twenty national poultry organizations have offered prizes in competition in various classes. The poultry contest between members of the A. & M. College Boys and Girls' Agricultural clubs will also be decided at this time.

Nearly one hundred boys and girls, delegates from various counties, will enter the final lap of the Boys' and Girls' Agricultural clubs during the short course. The grand prizes to be awarded at this time are the two scholarships, worth $150 each, in A. & M. college, and the four scholarships, worth $50 each, in any district agricultural school.

Special laws have been provided so that persons who feel that they can not come for the entire six-day period may come for any one day and hear a special program. Monday will be School Day. Subjects of general farm interest will also be discussed. On this day, county school superintendents, rural school teachers, and those interested in discussion of methods for improving the rural schools of Oklahoma will be enabled to hear experts on this subject and to take part in the discussion. Tuesday will be Dairy Day and Country Life Day. Community dairying, 1913's progress and the farm home will be featured in special lectures and discussions. The Oklahoma State Dairymen's association will meet on this day and the afternoon program will be given over to the dairymen. Wednesday is Crops Day and Entomology Day. Improvements of grain crops, termites and other grain sorghums, and co-operation in grain marketing will be special subjects. Beckwith on the Oklahoma Farm will be discussed by experts. Thursday and Friday will be Livestock and Silo Days. Horses and cattle will be featured Thursday and hogs and sheep Friday. Hires will be discussed on both days. The various forms of silo construction, including the pit silo, will be treated by the greatest authorities in the middle west. Saturday will be given over to round table discussions. Experts on the college staff will be present and will conduct these discussions.

Lectures and demonstrations in cooking and sewing will be given every forenoon and afternoon. Outside lecturers on these subjects will assist in the program. The cooking and sewing work will be supplemented by lectures and demonstrations on dairymen, gardening, floriculture and poultry.

The night programs will be popular in nature. Motion picture films and illustrated lectures will form a part of every night's program. Band concerts, glee club concerts and special vocal and instrumental music have been arranged for every night. A practical demonstration lecture on some important subject will form a part of each night's program. Men and women of national reputation will address the night sessions.

NO MORE MOSES BULLRUSHES

Philadelphia Protesters Names Given to Waits Received at Hospital.

Protest against the practice at Bluekey of naming foundlings after streets, house porches, subways and barrels was made recently by the children's bureau of the Society for Organizing Charity.

They are now at the hospital several waifs named after places where they had been abandoned by their mothers.

For example, a fat-cheeked boy who is a favorite with the nurses in the foundling ward, carries the name of "Johnnie Porch." Not long ago the infant was found wailing in a basket on a porch in South Philadelphia.

Another little waif at the hospital has the sobriquet of "Rebecca Station." The child was found in the Broad Street station.

A foundling found in the vestibule of a well-to-do family has been named "Ralph Vestibule." There are other foundlings at the hospital, and all carry names which suggest the places where they were found by police men or others.

A few weeks ago a mother abandoned a girl in the subway and when the infant reached the hospital it was named "Mabel Subway." A few days later the mother of the child was arrested and the infant was then given the name of its parent.—Philadelphia North American.

WILL CELEBRATE KEY CENTENNIAL

BALTIMORE IS TO HONOR THE WRITING OF "THE STAR-SPANGLED BANNER."

WILL BE A NOTABLE AFFAIR

Leading Men of the Country Will Take Part in Ten Days of Celebration Next Fall.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 3.—(Special.)—Baltimore is at work on its plans to make the centenary of the writing of "The Star Spangled Banner" the chief national event of 1914 and to group around it notable celebrations of patriotism and peace. The successful defense of Baltimore at North Point and Fort Mifflin comprised the final battles which preceded the Treaty of Ghent and these will be emphasized. The range of the celebration will include Washington, Annapolis, Frederick and the whole of the Chesapeake bay, with the main program and the climax at Baltimore. The National Star-Spangled Banner association has been incorporated. The honorary presidents are Woodrow Wilson, William H. Taft and Theodore Roosevelt. The vice presidents are the vice president of the United States, Thomas R. Marshall, Chief Justice, speaker of the house of representatives, the admiral of the navy, the general of the army, Governor Goldsborough of Maryland, and the present governors of the other seventeen states which constituted the union in 1814. The active president is Hon. James H. Preston, mayor of Baltimore; executive chairman, Dr. A. B. Hibbins, vice chairman, Allen S. Wiley, secretary, Robert E. Lee, treasurer, T. Rowland Thomas; corresponding secretary, John H. Macklin. There are forty committees headed by leading citizens.

On Thursday, September 3, the elaborate program will begin with a pilgrimage to the historic war of twelve miles along the Patuxent river and to the graves at Upper Marlboro, of Dr. William Branch, for whose rescue Kew visited the British fleet, while detained on the coral ship, "Minden." Key, in full view of the bombardment of Fort Mifflin, was inspired to write the national anthem.

On Sunday, September 6, the regular program will begin with exercises for Patriots' day, on which the main speakers will be Vice President Marshall and Speaker Clark. Other special addresses, with appropriate music and decorations, will occur throughout the city.

On the second day, there will be special ceremonies centering around the frigate "Constellation," the oldest vessel in the American navy. This will be the introduction to the presence of the largest fleet of historic ships ever assembled in American waters, including every form of naval architecture from the caravels of Columbus to the latest dreadnought.

On the third day there will be a revival of the fete and of the riding and running tournaments of the early years. The tournament is still a popular form of skill and recreation in the south, particularly in Maryland. It means wonderful riding and running, superb tilting, and the crowning by the successful knights of the queens of Love and Beauty and maddened-honor. At the Baltimore tournaments, the best riders and runners in America will participate. With it will be notable modern athletic contests in all departments of American sportsmanship.

On the fourth day the fraternal orders of America will make the most imposing demonstration in their history. In these orders the strong note is loyalty and patriotism. So it happens that they will add to the occasion, not only a fine inspiration, but a practical demonstration of their strength and influence in America. The fraternal orders have been prime movers in all the centennial work. The first day will be devoted to municipal and national pageantry and exercises showing the civic, historical and educational progress of the century, and with notable speakers.

The sixth day will be the parade of the army, navy and national guard. It is expected to make this the military event of the year. One of the features will be the reunion of British and American soldiers at the North Point battlefield, where the last armed conflict on land took place in 1814, before the treaty of peace was signed. This will follow the unveiling of the Peace monument there. Among the speakers will be Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, the British ambassador, the secretary of war, and others. At night, there will be a brilliant banquet in honor of distinguished guests.

On Saturday, September 12, which is the centennial anniversary of the defense of Baltimore, the exercises will fill the whole day. The main Baltimore has long been known as the "gastronomic capital of the universe," and Maryland hospitality is proverbial. These two features will be conspicuous during the city's greatest celebration. One exhibition will be the New Baltimore. Since the big fire of a decade ago, and especially during the past few years, the city has been rejuvenated from cobblestones to modern pavements and has made one of the most complete and progressive municipalities of the world.

HER NEW HESITATION MAINTAINS PRIZE

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Miss Alice Martin, formerly of St. Louis, has received word that she has been awarded the first prize, a gold medal, of the "L'Amour de France," a periodical representing an organization of France's leading dancing authorities, for her "Hesitation Waltz." Miss Martin asserts that she is the creator of this new variation of the round waltz.

It will be the address of President Woodrow Wilson, and the signing of the national anthem by a "Hundred Plan," composed of thousands of school children. At night the bombardment of Fort Mifflin will be reproduced and there will be water arrival with distinguished guests and a spectacular rendering of the national anthem by the combined bands.

On Sunday, September 14, the program will be observed by various exercises in all churches and other places of public assembly, including addresses by Dr. Frederick William H. Taft, Hon. William J. Bryan, secretary of state, and other representatives of the world peace movement.

Monday, September 14, will be Naval Vespers day, with the participation of many of the history-making ships of the century, the presence of Admiral Dewey, a trip to Annapolis and a salute at the tomb of John Paul Jones who was the first to raise and defend the American flag on the high seas. Among the speakers will be Hon. Joseph Daniels, secretary of the navy, Admiral Dewey, General George Porter, Assistant Chief and Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, who will describe the 1812 British trophy lies on exhibition at the Naval academy.

Wednesday, September 15, will be Key Memorial day, with a pilgrimage to the birthplace and the tomb of Key at Frederick City. This program plans an outline of the ten days. There will be a great Chesapeake regatta off Fort Mifflin and an aviation meet with demonstrations of aviation in relation to warfare. There are 10,000 boats in the Chesapeake bay and there are almost as many in the Delaware. From these and from the craft of New York and southern points will come the swiftest and best, and the contests will include the various forms of marine architecture and skilled seamanship.
